Coming Up:

January 1 & 2—closed for New Years

January 19—closed for MLK Jr. Day

Happy New Year!!!! 2026 is here. Time to ring out the old and ring in the new. There is a lot to look forward to this year.

First of all our kitchen remodel should begin sometime soon. We have all been waiting a long time for this to happen. Trust me it will be worth it when it is complete. Right now we are waiting on the completed plans and drawings from the architect which will in turn be given to the Fire Marshall for approval. Once that is complete we will begin the construction part!

The days are starting to get longer. Have you noticed? I think we have gained about 5 minutes from the shortest day of the year. I always look forward to the days getting longer. January is the month that it seems like winter will never end. Of course, January it is normally the coldest month of the year. We shall see.

The month of January brings with it several holidays. New Year's Day (of course) on January 1 and Martin Luther King, Jr. Day on January 19. The center will be closed on those days.

What else exciting is happening in January? I can think of a few things, like vacations to warm and sunny beaches for some and watching high school basketball for others!

If you haven't noticed Ninilchik has a pretty dynamic basketball program. I expect them to be contenders this year for a state championship. I hope I'm not jinxing them because there is a long way to go before they can lift the trophy. If you are in town and have a chance to attend a game I highly recommend it.

If you have a chance to get to the Senior Center for lunch, or bingo, or game day, I would also recommend that! Those who sew, quilt, and/or knit, there's opportunities for you too. Come join the fun.

I hope you have a happy and healthy January

~ Dick Hawkins, President

A note from the Executive Director

Happy New Year!! Welcome 2026! The daylight is increasing and so is our snow depth! Oh well, it is winter in Alaska and we all know spring will come again!

Good things are coming in 2026! The kitchen remodel is really ramping up! It will be nice to have the extra space! We have not yet received a complete bid from the contractor we've selected. They are waiting for the approval from the Fire Marshall on the drawings that are currently being finalized so they know exactly what needs to be done both mechanically and for the electric component of the remodel. Once that is done, it will be full steam ahead!

As I reflect back on the year we've just left behind I am reminded of just how important the "little" things are. I am so thankful for the wonderful staff and Board Members and I get to work with. Their thoughts and actions are heartfelt in all they do and their sparkle never dims! We are so blessed at the center to have so many people willing to lend a hand when needed. No matter the size of the job, someone is always willing to tackle it and get the job done – and always with a smile! I cannot express my thanks enough to all of you. Giving of your time and talents may seem like a "little" thing but rest assured, it is not! It's what keeps our center going and you are so very much appreciated!

Stay safe out there as you navigate the rest of our winter. I wish you good health and lots of happiness in the new year!

~Julie Otto

Comforting Winter Skin Care Tips

by Emma Hobson (as seen in bellamumma.com)

Winter products need to address the effects of the harsher environment; ingredients such as silicones are a godsend, creating invisible shields to protect our skin against dehydration and can even repair an impaired barrier. Having powerful anti-inflammatory ingredients that reduce redness and irritation, such as Panthenol (B5), Oat Kernel (Avena Sativa), and nourishing, softening emollients such as Evening Primrose Oil and Shea Butter with various peptides that repair and restore the skin, are essential in winter.

Here are some comforting skin care tips to get your clients through the winter season:

Comfort for dehydrated, parched skin. Though drinking water is good for you, it doesn't correlate directly to having hydrated skin; it's better to rely on products that protect the barrier function and prevent moisture loss. One of my top 5 favorite ingredients is Hyaluronic Acid, which has the ability to hold 1000 times its own weight in moisture; its 'big brother,' Cross-linked Hyaluronic Acid, is amazing too. An important part of caring for this condition is exfoliation, such as hydroxy acid and / or digestive enzyme products, either wash off or leave on—both are good and many can be combined. Mild exfoliation can be done daily, more active, two to three times per week.

To boost the moisture and regain the 'plumpness' in the skin, apply layers of a hydrating serum, toner and moisturizer (as the skin responds well to layering). Daily use of hydrating serums really keep the skin moist and supple. The hydrating spritz toner will boost moisture levels and reduce the quantity of moisturizer needed (an added bonus), and can be used throughout the day over makeup to give a real surge in moisture levels. Moisturizer doesn't need to be heavy or contain a lot of oil; the skin is lacking moisture not oil. Try a medium weight moisturizer with a minimum of SPF30 that is designed to nourish, protect and, more importantly, hydrate. For an added boost to parched skin, apply a hydrating gel masque once a week, ensuring it goes close the corners of the nose, mouth and eyes to target those extra dry patches.

Comfort for dry, irritated skin. Firstly, use a milky, creamy cleanser that has a light vegetable oil base such as Safflower Oil—it's the perfect start to a winter skin care routine. Exfoliation will prevent the skin feeling taught, rough and flaky and it will help eradicate any dry patches. Avoid scrubs and opt for microfoliation instead, this will very gently 'polish' the skin surface using Rice Bran and Rice Extract. Vitamins are terrific in elevating dry, irritated skin, especially in multi-vitamin 'power packed' serums and masques. Recommend those containing a complex of Vitamin A, C and E, Panthenol (B5) and Beta Glucan as each vitamin has its own unique benefit to the skin.

Using a night-time oil based serum will provide extra nourishment. Look for Argan, Rosehip Seed and Rose Oil blended with essential oils and combined with peptides, to deeply replenish lost oils and give lackluster skin a fresh, dewy appearance. Include moisturizers that 'work smart' for the skin. Ideally containing Vitamins A, C, E, Panthenol (B5) and Beta Glucan, essential fatty acids, peptides and antioxidants. Don't forget to mention adding a few extra drops of oil to a bath or body moisturizer for that extra skin nourishment for the entire body.

Comfort for red, itchy eyes. All your eye care products need to be soothing and calming; it's important to avoid those that contain Retinol, hydroxy acids and artificial fragrance. There are some amazingly soothing eye serums that contain Red Hogweed, Ginger Extract and Oat Kernel to serve as great anti-inflammatory agents, reduce the redness and irritation. When the corners of the eye become very dry and irritated, recommend the use a Silicone moisturizer (which is anhydrous) to protect and repair the impaired barrier of the skin and elevate the irritation.

Comfort for the lips. Be extremely gentle with the lips. Avoid any harsh exfoliation or products that 'sting' or can be possibly drying. Keep the lips soft and smooth by using a microfoliant every other day over the lips. If you're 'addicted' to applying lip balm/stick, bear in mind that your ideal lip product is designed to protect from harsh climates and is rich in essential fatty acids and oils such as Avocado and Wheat Germ, Shea Butter and Cacao Seed Butter.

Extra winter-care tips for to give your client:

- Try to avoid using very hot water including showers and baths, this will prevent increased dehydration and sensitivity
- If you have the heat on, combat the dry climate by placing a bowl of water in the room, it's better to have the water evaporates from the bowl than from your skin
- Apply a sunscreen with SPF30 at minimum, you need to protect against UVA all year round
- Watch your caffeine intake, keep coffee, tea, etc. to a minimum
- Eat more good fats (avocado, nuts and oily fish) to keep the skin moisturized
